

Beautiful - "Autumn in New York" soundtrack

(Austin Cunningham & Trina Harmon)

I'm looking for a way to feel you hold me
To feel your heart beat, just one more time
I'm reaching back, trying to touch the moment
Each precious minute that you were mine
How do you prepare, when you love someone this way,
To let them go a little more each day?

CHORUS

The stars we put in place
The dreams we didn't waste
The sorrows we embraced
The world belonged to you and me
The oceans that we crossed
The innocence we've lost
The hurting at the end
I'd go there again
'cause it was beautiful
It was beautiful

Some days missing you is overwhelming
When it hits me you're not coming back
And in my darkest hours I have wondered
Was it worth it, for the time we had?
My thoughts get kind of scattered,
but one thing I know is true
I bless the day that I found you, oh oh

CHORUS

The stars we put in place
The dreams we didn't waste
The sorrows we embraced
The world belonged to you and me
The oceans that we crossed
The innocence we've lost
The hurting at the end
I'd go there again
'cause it was beautiful
It was beautiful
[musical bridge]

Oh, the rules we stepped aside
The fear that we defied
The thrill of the ride
The fire in our hearts that burned
The oceans that we crossed
The innocence we've lost
The hurting at the end
I'd go there again
'cause it was beautiful
So beautiful
It was beautiful
